

RCCG OCEANIA

Stewardship

Kingdom Economics: Wisdom and Wealth

At a Glance

BIG IDEA

In the kingdom of God, wealth is not defined by money but by value and wisdom. By transforming our mindset and understanding money as a tool, we can align with kingdom principles that prioritize wisdom and value creation over financial accumulation. This study explores how biblical figures like Joseph, Solomon, and Jesus exemplified these principles.

PRIMARY PASSAGES

Deuteronomy 8:18

Proverbs 22:7

Matthew 6

Romans 12:2

1 Corinthians 14:33

Key Takeaways

- Money is a tool, not the essence of wealth.
- God prioritizes mindset transformation over financial increase.
- Debt positions us as servants, compromising our dominion.
- The kingdom values wisdom and value creation over monetary wealth.
- Biblical figures prospered through wisdom and insight, not just financial means.

Introduction

In the kingdom of God, the concept of wealth transcends mere financial accumulation. It is rooted in wisdom, value creation, and a transformed mindset. This study delves into the biblical perspective on money and wealth, drawing lessons from figures like Joseph, Solomon, and Jesus, who exemplified kingdom economics through their lives.

Scripture Reading

- Deuteronomy 8:18 — Emphasizes that God gives the power to create wealth, focusing on ability rather than money itself.
- Proverbs 22:7 — Highlights the positional nature of debt, showing how it can lead to servitude.
- Matthew 6 — Encourages seeking the kingdom first, assuring that provision will follow.
- Romans 12:2 — Stresses the importance of renewing the mind for transformation, including financial perspectives.
- 1 Corinthians 14:33 — Affirms that God is not the author of confusion, implying clarity in financial matters is divine.

Key Points

1. Money as a Tool — Money is not the essence of wealth but a medium of exchange. In the kingdom of God, money should be viewed as a tool to achieve greater purposes. It is a means to an end, not the end itself. By understanding this, we can use money to further kingdom values and purposes, rather than allowing it to dictate our lives.

- Reflect on how you currently view money: as a tool or as wealth itself.
- Identify ways you can use your financial resources to further kingdom purposes.
- Consider how you can shift your focus from financial accumulation to value creation.

Scripture: Deuteronomy 8:18

2. Mindset Transformation — God prioritizes the transformation of our mindset over mere financial increase. Romans 12:2 highlights the importance of renewing our minds to align with kingdom economics. This transformation allows us to see money as a tool and to prioritize wisdom and value creation.

- Pray for a renewed mind that aligns with kingdom principles.
- Study biblical teachings on money and wealth to transform your perspective.
- Engage in discussions with others about kingdom economics to broaden your understanding.

Scripture: Romans 12:2

3. Debt and Dominion — Debt is not just a financial issue but a positional one that can compromise our dominion and freedom. Proverbs 22:7 warns that the borrower becomes a servant to the lender. In the kingdom of God, we are called to live in freedom and dominion, which can be hindered by debt.

- Evaluate your current debt situation and its impact on your freedom.
- Develop a plan to reduce and eliminate debt in your life.
- Seek wisdom and counsel on managing finances to avoid future debt.

Scripture: Proverbs 22:7

4. Value Over Money — The kingdom of God operates on value creation and wisdom, not merely on financial wealth. Biblical figures like Joseph and Solomon exemplified this principle by using their wisdom and insight to create value and impact. Their success was not measured by their wealth but by the value they brought to others.

- Identify areas in your life where you can create value for others.
- Study the lives of Joseph and Solomon to learn how they prioritized wisdom and value.
- Focus on developing skills and insights that can contribute to value creation.

Key Points (cont.)

5. Wisdom and Provision — Figures like Jesus demonstrated that wisdom and insight can multiply resources and provide solutions beyond financial means. In the kingdom of God, wisdom is a key to unlocking provision and abundance. By seeking wisdom, we can find creative solutions to financial challenges.
- Pray for wisdom in managing your resources and finances.
 - Look for opportunities to apply wisdom in solving financial challenges.
 - Trust in God's provision as you seek His wisdom in all areas of life.

Group Discussion

Tip: Use these questions to guide the group from seeing → understanding → applying.

Observation

- What does Deuteronomy 8:18 say about the source of wealth?
- How does Proverbs 22:7 describe the relationship between debt and servitude?
- What is the main message of Matthew 6 regarding priorities?
- How does Romans 12:2 relate to financial perspectives?

Interpretation

- Why is money considered a tool rather than wealth itself in the kingdom of God?
- How does a transformed mindset impact our financial decisions?
- In what ways can debt affect our dominion and freedom?
- What can we learn from Joseph and Solomon about value creation?

Application

- How can you use your financial resources to further kingdom purposes?
- What steps can you take to transform your mindset regarding money?
- What practical actions can you take to reduce and eliminate debt?
- How can you focus on creating value in your community or workplace?

Prayer Focus

- Seek wisdom in financial decisions
- Pray for a transformed mindset
- Ask for guidance in value creation

Next Step

Reflect on how you can align your financial practices with kingdom principles, focusing on wisdom and value creation.

Conclusion

Kingdom economics challenges us to redefine our understanding of wealth, prioritizing wisdom and value creation over financial accumulation. By viewing money as a tool and transforming our mindset, we align with God's principles and experience true prosperity. Let us learn from biblical figures like Joseph, Solomon, and Jesus, who exemplified these principles, and apply them in our lives to fulfill our kingdom purpose.